Application Short Answer

Please answer the following leadership scenario questions to the best of your ability.

Scenario 1

An institute participant is a loner during group activities, and tends to wander away from the crowd when everyone is transitioning from one place to another. When you see that student again, you notice the faint scent of marijuana lingering around him/her. You are now more alert and attentive to the wandering student's activities. On another occasion, you overhear some participants talking about a kid who has been smoking during the institute.

What steps would you take in this situation?

Scenario 2

You are monitoring a roundtable session to ensure participants are alert and engaged. As you are scanning the room, you notice one kid is texting. You kindly ask her to put her phone away; however, moments later, you see her using her phone again. After asking the participant to put the phone away for the third time, she does so begrudgingly, but then brings the phone out once you have turned away.

What would your response be to this situation?

Do you foresee any conflicts with the program schedule as it stands? If so, please explain?
